The Talk of Stamford Bridge

TODAY'S fixtures are the reverse of those played on the opening day in August, and for us that was a day when Arsenal comprehensively beat us three-nil at Highbury. So, in welcoming them to Stamford Bridge, we also welcome the comparatively early opportunity to put that result right. Then, as soon as this match is over, both clubs will be concentrating on a European date next Wednesday, when Arsenal meet the Swiss team, Grasshoppers in Zurich, while we are in Sweden to face Atvidaberg.

Next Saturday we are at home again, to Southampton, and as a result of Monday's replay victory against Nottingham Forest, we stage a fourth round League Cup-tie against Bolton Wanderers on Wednesday week (Oct. 27), a week before the European Cup-Winners' Cup home leg against Atvidaberg.

With regard to both the Bolton and Atvidaberg matches here, would Season Ticket Holders please note that they have until Friday next (Oct. 22) to claim their seats. This can be done either in person during normal office hours or by post. In each case they should quote reference number on their SRS season-ticket, block/door, row and seat number.

Injury report: Peter Houseman, who fell on his left shoulder in Monday's replay, is likely to be missing 2-3 weeks with a damaged ligament. Chris Garland, who injured an ankle ten days ago against Forest, resumed light training on Tuesday. John Dempsey's bruised instep is progressing well.

Good luck, Keith: Two weeks ago Keith Weller moved to Leicester City, where he has joined another former Chelsea forward, Alan Birchenall. In his one season at Stamford Bridge, Keith was our leading scorer with 14 goals and helped in the winning of the Cup-Winners' Cup. We wish him the best of luck with his new club.

* * *

Unlucky 13: Paddy Mulligan played his 13th full International for Eire in last

FRONT COVER SHOT

FOR our cover photograph today we go back to the corresponding match against Arsenal in August last year and see John Hollins on his way to scoring the goal that won him the "Golden Goal" award for 1970-71 on London Week-end Television's "Big Match" programme.

Hollins is shown beating Arsenal's double challenge by a split second and lifting the ball over Bob Wilson. It hit the bar and rebounded . . . and John, chasing back from the by-line in a sweeping half-circle, smashed the ball into the roof of the net for the opening goal in our 2-1 win.

Chelsea fans voted it the "greatest solo goal ever seen at Stamford Bridge. John rates it "the best goal I've ever scored—I don't think I'll ever get another quite as good" . . . but that hasn't stopped him trying.

Having finished 1970-71 with nine goals, his best total in any one season, he is already on the way to beating it with eight this season. You can see them all on the centre pages.

Sunday's European Championship match against Austria at Linz. Austria won 6-0.

Perfect timing: Director Richard Attenborough, just back from filming in Morocco, arrived after half-time on Monday. Within seconds, he was up on his feet again, cheering that much-needed equaliser by Tommy Baldwin. Neat entrance, Dickie . . . nice to see you back!

* * *

Spurs sell-out: All reserved seats have been sold for the home game against Tottenham on November 27. For the match v. Leeds (Dec. 11) we have only 80p. reserved seats left.

* * *

Message of thanks: Norman Hardy, for five years a Chelsea Match Day Steward, wishes to thank, via the programme, all those in B Section, East Stand, who have sent messages to him in hospital.

WARNING TO BOYS

IT DID not escape our attention that a large number of boys invaded the pitch after Monday night's match. The threat of full-price admission remains, and if boys continue to go on the field at any time we shall not hesitate to re-impose it, as we did two seasons ago.

OUR FIRST POINT IN NINE VISITS TO ANFIELD

Liverpool manager Bill Shankly didn't appreciate the way we drew at Anfield last Saturday. But then, he's not used to Chelsea taking a point up there—we'd lost our last eight League games at Liverpool. And the last time a Chelsea goalkeeper kept a clean sheet there was in October 1919. So take a bow, Peter Bonetti and company.

Bill Shankly said: "Chelsea didn't come to Anfield even hoping to score a goal". Tommy Baldwin looks as if he means business, though, in this face-to-face, toe-to-toe encounter with Ray Clemence.

Bill Shankly said: "Our goalkeeper might just as well have sat up in the stand with me." Instead, Clemence is on his knees, as Baldwin rolls into the net. It's a sequel to the top picture, and a free-kick to Liverpool.

AND OUR FIRST CLEAN SHEET THERE SINCE 1919!

It's something new when the visitors prevent Liverpool scoring, and for the first time this season the Kop did not have a goal to cheer. We reckon we worked hard for our point, and we use our match pictures from Anfield to reply to some of Bill's remarks. But whatever you do Bill, please don't stop talking about football . . . even if we don't always agree with you!

Bill Shankly said: "Chelsea didn't seem to want to win at all". But Lloyd and Clemence aren't taking Baldwin's challenge lightly. Lloyd clears the ball out of the Liverpool goalmouth.

Bill Shankly said: "Chelsea played like Continentals, slowing it down to the pace they wanted". Peter Houseman is exactly the opposite to a go-slow figure here as he hurtles three feet off the ground in search of a goal-chance.

SYDNEY TAFLER

THE reason Sydney Tafler became a Chelsea fan is there with him in the picture above: his 13-year-old son Jonathan, whose bedroom at their West London home is plastered with Chelsea photographs, pennants, charts, banners . . . blue and white everywhere. Says Sydney: "He's an academic boy really—goes to Latymer, and I hope he makes Cambridge as his elder brother Jeremy did—but since he was about nine my wife (actress Joy Shelton) and I have had a football maniac on our hands.

"I never used to go. For 25 years, Saturday to me meant racing, either going or watching it on the box. Then Jonathan started nagging away at me to go to Chelsea with him and one day, for peace and quiet, I decided to give the horses a miss. By the time I came home from Stamford Bridge that night I was hooked, and have been ever since.

"Mind you, what a fantastic introduction I had, because that was the season Chelsea won the F.A. Cup. I was nearly ill with excitement at Wembley and didn't get to Old Trafford for the replay. When we equalised against Leeds at Wembley so near the end, I looked at Jonathan and he and an old fellow of about 80 were hugging each other with joy.

"They didn't know each other, hadn't met before, and I thought 'What a marvellous thing this football is, that it can bring people together like that.' It was one of the greatest sporting moments of my life.

(Photograph by Jon Lyons)

It's such a pity that the game also brings out the worst in some people—this awful element of vandalism."

Sydney Tafler, London-born, left council school at 14 and got a job in Houndsditch Warehouse at 23/- a week. He had always wanted to act, and some time after leaving school his headmaster arranged for him to enter for a scholarship at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

In a "field" of 40, young Tafler was first past the post. His certificate said "You have some dramatic ability"—and Sydney was launched on a career of straight, comedy and character acting that has put him on the screen in more than 100 films and 300 TV performances.

One series of "Alexander the Greatest" for ATV has just finished. Another is due to follow soon, but before that you can see him solo as an old violinist (not that you'll recognise him through the make-up) in "Farewell Performance", in BBC TV's "Thirty Minute Theatre".

Back to football, today's match will stretch family ties almost to breaking point, because brother-in-law film director Lewis Gilbert is a rabid Arsenal supporter. Of the new stadium now being planned at Stamford Bridge, Sydney says: "I hope Chelsea provide the equivalent of a members' enclosure at racing, where you can get a meal before the match and a drink in comfort at half-time.

"Car-parking facilities, too. What a performance I go through at big matches like today's, I start by driving here before midday, to get parked nearby for after the game. Then I take a taxi home to have lunch and another one back here for the game.

"I know it sounds mad . . . but we're a Chelsea-mad family. Our three 'seasons' in the West Stand are always taken. If Jeremy doesn't come, we bring Joy. She's first reserve! I suppose, on balance, I'm saving money, not going racing now on Saturdays. You could say the horses are paying for our season-tickets."

Chelsea Away Match Travel TO LEICESTER, OCTOBER 30

The trips we arrange for away League matches are proving increasingly popular. In response to many requests from Supporters who like to make their own travel arrangements, we have decided to offer the trip to Leicester (Oct. 30) on an "either or" basis. You can buy just the match ticket (75p) if you wish; just the travel ticket (£2.25) for those who like to stand on the terraces; or, of course, both. They are obtainable from the Box Office at the Main Entrance.

SWEDEN NEXT WEDNESDAY

The air charter to Atvidaberg next Wednesday is full up and no further bookings can be accepted.

"Golden Goal" rivals: Today's match brings into opposition the players who have won the Big Match (London Week-end TV) Golden Goal award for the past two seasons—Arsenal's George Graham and our own John Hollins.

JOHN HOLLINS O

Eight of the best in a season

1 A penalty that puts us level and on the way to a 2-1 win at Huddersfield on August 28.

3 Another 20-yard drive in the 3-3 draw at home to Coventry three days later. We hadn't got a picture of it—until supporter R. Szubanski, of London S.W.8, sent us this shot (John is arrowed) taken from behind the goal.

5 Hollins is not in the picture at West Ham (September 11), but it's his terrific 20-yarder that is slipping through Ferguson's hands for our goal in a 2-1 defeat.

7 In the return game on September 29, John beats the Jeunesse 'keeper again—this time from the spot for the fourth goal in our record-breaking 13-0 second-leg win.

N TARGET 1971-72

n still only two months old

2 John's spectacular 20-yard left-foot volley that beats West Bromwich here on September 1.

4 It isn't often that "Holly" scores from close range. Our second goal in the League Cup at home to Plymouth on September 8 was an exception—and the picture is by courtesy of Westward Television.

6 Four days later comes another long-range goal without the scorer in camera shot. John's left-foot rocket hits the net from 25 yards for the fifth of our eight against Jeunesse in Luxembourg. That was a Hollins goal for the sixth successive match—and so far no one has challenged our claim that it's a record for a player wearing a No. 4 shirt.

8 And for a photograph of John Hollins' eighth goal of the season we thank London Weekend Television for this frame from the "Big Match" film of No. 3 that we scored against Wolves here a fortnight ago.

book No.2

Albert Sewell

A YEAR ago The Chelsea Football Book No. 1 was a complete sell-out. If you bought that one, you are sure to want No. 2 in the series, which has just been published by Stanley Paul (£1.10p)—and if you were unable to get last year's issue, you won't want to miss its successor.

All the contents are new, and Editor Albert Sewell tells graphically—in words and wonderful illustrations—the story of Chelsea's European conquest last season.

Chelsea Chairman Brian Mears writes the Foreword to a book which gives revealing insight into the new-look plans for Stamford Bridge.

There is more magnificent reading for Chelsea fans under chapter-titles "John Hollins, the Chelsea Dynamo" and "The Day The Russians Came to Stamford Bridge" (the story of one of Chelsea's greatest-ever occasions when Moscow Dynamo played here in 1945).

Ken Shellito talks about how Chelsea set about producing "tomorrow's stars" in the Youth Section. Assistant-Manager Ron Suart gives a "close-up" on life as Dave Sexton's right-hand man, and you'll find an amazing collection of details about Chelsea past and present in "It's a Chelsea Fact."

These are only some of the contents in The Chelsea Football Book No. 2. We recommend it as a splendid successor to last year's No. 1 volume—the pictures alone (more than 60 of them) are worth the money! You can get your copy here today at the Chelsea Shop, price £1.10p.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Programme Editor

MOST of us have a skeleton of some sort in the cupboard. I become aware of mine every time Chelsea play Arsenal . . . so I might as well confess. You see, although my working association with Chelsea goes back 22 years to the start of the 1949-50 season, it was Arsenal who won the first battle for my boyhood pocket-money. And Tottenham. During war-time, they shared the White Hart Lane ground. You saw Arsenal playing there one week in the League South, Spurs the next, and on days when landlord and tenant clashed out in the middle my shouts were always for Arsenal.

Alf Kirchen was one of the strongest-running, hardest-shooting right-wingers I've ever seen. Denis Compton was another of my heroes on the left—what a left foot, and what battles he and that hard-as-nails Spurs right-back Ralph Ward had whenever they met.

And it was Arsenal who introduced me to Stamford Bridge. I'd never crossed London this far until May 15, 1943, when war-time North and South Cup-winners Blackpool and Arsenal met here. The team-sheet is in front of me as I write, and at least one colleague in today's Press Box will remember that particular game—Bernard Joy. He was programmed as Flt./Lt. B. Joy, Arsenal's centre-half, with Flying Officer Jack Crayston and Cpl. George Male (captain) on either side of him, R.A.F./Sgt. Laurie Scott and L/Cpl. Leslie Compton behind, Flt./Sgt. George Marks in goal and, up front, Flt./Sgt. Kirchen, Pilot Officer Ted Drake, L./Bdr. Reg. Lewis, Cliff Bastin and Sgt. Compton (D.).

Blackpool, too, had a bit of a team, and from two down in seven minutes (Drake and Lewis were Arsenal's scorers), they responded with four goals (Dix, Dodds, Finan and Burbanks) in a wonderful match watched by 55,000. Matthews was the only Blackpool forward who didn't score, but the Maestro did just about everything else.

On the way out I buried my red and white rosette deep in my pocket, but it was not a day of total disaster. After all, I'd been to Stamford Bridge for the first time, and went home with the feeling that it would not be the last.

Between times, Arsenal have played here on many occasions, and just to bring things right up to date with today's game, did you hear the no doubt apocryphal story of the 'phone call Dave Sexton had the other day? It came from the wife of a life-long Chelsea supporter. "He's dying," she said, "and his last wish is to say a few words to you, Mr. Sexton." So Dave, being the decent chap he is, pops round to the house a few streets from Stamford Bridge. Outside, there's a fellow busy painting the place in red and white; indoors, the old 'un is propped up on his deathbed in a room that's garlanded with red and white.

"It's all right, you've come to the right house, Mr. Sexton," murmured the departing one. "I had to speak to you, because after following Chelsea for 65 years, I wanted you to know that I'm changing to Arsenal."

"But why?" asked Dave. "We've won a couple of cups for you these past two seasons, haven't we?" "That's right," came the reply. "But we're playing Arsenal this week, and I reckon if someone's going to die, it's better it's one of their devils than one of us!"

As you know, Steve Kember was League Cup-tied with Crystal Palace before he joined us, so cannot play again in that competition this season. But he still made himself useful here on Monday night, in two ways. First, he presented a cheque (above) for £467.94 to Mrs. J. Young, of London S.W.9, who was the outright winner of Pool 1 on October 2. The Agent who sold the winning ticket, Mr. D. Jennett (left)—who is our top Agent with 448 members on his books—received a bonus of £23.40. On the right is Chelsea Pools Girl Andrea Williams. Then Steve made the “lucky draw” among all our Agents for the free trip to Chelsea for next Wednesday’s Cup-Winners’ Cup-tie in Sweden—and the winner was our top “Golden Goals” seller (on big-match days like today he has been known to sell 1,000 tickets), Mr. Alan Woolstan of London, W.1.

VISITORS

ARSENAL come to Stamford Bridge on form and in a sequence of five successive wins which have been gained in League, European Cup and League Cup football. After 15 games in those three competitions, they have yet to draw a match this season, a statistic which can be applied to no other club in any division.

By winning the Championship last season, Arsenal went clear at the top of the "League Titles" table. It was their eighth success, putting them one ahead of Everton, Liverpool and Manchester United. Five days later they won the F.A. Cup for the fourth time in their history.

THEIR PLAYERS

BOB WILSON: Has already added two distinctions to last season's "double" performance—elected to Sports Council and, on Wednesday night, winning first full cap in Scotland's goal against Portugal, qualifying on parentage qualification, though having played for England as schoolboy. Joined Arsenal as amateur from Wolves in 1963, professional since March 1964. Born Chesterfield. 6 ft. 0½ in., 13 st. 11 lb.

PAT RICE: Won his sixth cap for N. Ireland against Russia on Wednesday. Though born in Belfast, grew up living close to Arsenal Stadium—signed apprentice December 1964 and professional March 1966. Established regular club place last season. 5 ft. 8½ in., 12 st. 3 lb.

SAMMY NELSON: Has recently replaced the injured Bob McNab to give Arsenal an all-Irish International full-back partnership (nine caps for N. Ireland). Originally a winger, he signed professional in April 1966 on his 17th birthday. Born Belfast. 5 ft. 10½ in., 11 st. 7½ lb.

FRANK McLINTOCK: Captained Arsenal to the "double" and made it a personal "treble" by winning Footballer of the Year award. Also collected three more Scotland caps last season (total now eight). Joined Arsenal from Leicester in £80,000 deal, October 1964. Born Glasgow. 5 ft. 9½ in., 11 st. 8 lb.

PETER SIMPSON: Powerful back-four player who recently completed 200 First Division appearances for Arsenal, for whom he signed as apprentice ten years ago this month and as professional in April 1962. Born Gorleston. 5 ft. 10½ in., 11 st. 8 lb.

JOHN ROBERTS: Strong Welsh International (five caps) who did well in Arsenal's defence this season before injuring an ankle last mid-week. Cost £30,000 when signed from Northampton in April 1969. Born Abercynor. 5 ft. 11½ in., 12 st. 12½ lb.

CHARLIE GEORGE: 21 last Sunday, he has made a rapid return to action following a cartilage operation in August. All-round flair makes him dangerously creative in midfield and he's a finisher, too—scored F.A. Cup-winner against Liverpool in May. Islington Schools product, professional since February 1968. Born Islington. 5 ft. 11 in., 11 st. 8 lb.

GEORGE ARMSTRONG: Arsenal's perpetual-motion player has made more senior appearances (385 to date) than anyone on the staff, playing a significant part in their Fairs Cup and "double" achievements of the past two seasons. Signed August 1961. Five England Under-23 caps. Born Hebburn, Co. Durham. 5 ft. 6½ in., 11 st. 3 lb.

EDDIE KELLY: Signed at 17 from Possilpark YMCA (Glasgow) in February 1968 and has made important contribution to Arsenal's successes in past two seasons, including vital equaliser in Cup Final last May. Scotland Under-23 cap. Born Glasgow. 5 ft. 8½ in., 11 st. 11 lb.

JOHN RADFORD: Previously capped v. Rumania at Wembley in January 1969, he won an England squad recall this week in Switzerland. Recently completed a century of goals for Arsenal and, still only 24, has played more than 300 first-team games. Professional since February 1964. Born Hemsworth, Yorkshire. 5 ft. 11 in., 13 st. 5 lb.

RAY KENNEDY: Ranks with George as Arsenal's finest discovery for years, and forms a formidable spearhead with Radford. Top-scored with 21 goals towards "double" last season, and voted "Young Player of the Year". Signed professional from apprentice November 1968. Born Whitley Bay. 5 ft. 10½ in., 13 st. 9 lb.

GEORGE GRAHAM: Gained Scotland Under-23 honours as a Chelsea player and his first full cap against Portugal on Wednesday. Joined us June 1964 from Aston Villa, moved to Highbury September 1966 in deal which brought Tommy Baldwin to Stamford Bridge. Born Bargeddie. 5 ft. 10 in., 12 st. 5 lb.

TALK - BACK

Today's subject in our special series of interviews is

MARVIN HINTON

WHO MADE HIS 300TH FIRST-TEAM APPEARANCE FOR CHELSEA ON MONDAY

Family details:	My wife Pat and I have three children—Kevin (7), Janine (3½) and Darren (8 months). We live at Crawley, and the family pet is Sally, a Jack Russell terrier.
"My team" as a boy:	Living at Croydon, I supported Crystal Palace. When I left school at 15 (I played wing-half for Croydon Schools), I came for a junior trial with Chelsea but was turned down. Instead, I joined Charlton, and it was from them that I was transferred to Chelsea in August 1963.
Biggest thrill of career:	Winning an F.A. Cup medal two seasons ago after being on the losing side at Wembley in 1967. But I think the one game I've enjoyed more than the rest in my 300 for Chelsea was beating Liverpool 2-1 up there in the third round of the Cup in 1966.
Hobbies:	I like gardening (I've been very pleased with my display of roses this year) and I go to all the amateur boxing shows at Crawley.
Hardest part of football:	Training—I've never found that easy. It's always made interesting here, but I'd rather play a match any day.
Favourite position:	People say I read the game well at the back, but I don't mind whether I play sweeper, double centre-half or anywhere as long as I'm in. It's difficult to key yourself up in the Reserves when there are only a few hundred watching.
Career ambition:	To keep on playing as long as I enjoy my football. I've certainly done that, being back in the side lately. I know one or two other clubs have been interested in me when I've been a bit out of the limelight, but I've always been happy here and that counts for quite a lot.
Best pal at Chelsea:	Ossie.
My tips for honours in 1971-72:	Manchester United for the League Championship—they're looking tighter, more consistent than in recent years—and Chelsea to win at least one cup . . . but don't ask me which! I believe things run in threes, and after a poor start in the League we are shaping up again. Yes, I fancy us to make it a hat-trick of cup successes this season.

As in the first leg we led 6-0 at half-time (after 4-0 in 13 mins.) and we also scored four in the last 13 mins. against amateur opponents who battled gallantly to the end, none more than their 'keeper with three stitches put in a cut over the left eye at half-time.*
